Importants of Ozone

Most ozone resides in the stratosphere (a layer of atmosphere between 10 and 20 km above sea level) here it acts as a shield to protect earth's surface from the sun's harmful-ultraviolet radiation. With speering of this shield, we would be more susceptible to skin cancer, staracts and impaired immune systems.

In 1970, atmospheric research revealed that ozone layer was being depleted by chemicals released by industry, mainly chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs). Concerns that increased UV radiation due to ozone depletion threatened life on Earth, including increased skin cancer in humans and other ecological problems, led to bans on the chemicals, and the latest evidence is that ozone depletion has slowed or stopped. The United Nations General Assembly has designated September 16 as the International Day for the
