Green Campus Initiatives

Our institution is committed to maintain the health and biodiversity of campus that eventually protect our environment. So, being a responsible citizen, we thought it as our duty to contribute something to make the world more beautiful. It was decided to work together so that coming together of the colleagues may reduce some sort of mental stress and explore the creativity. Thus, it became an interesting activity. On the one hand, campus became beautiful and clean, on the other we could know the value of team work. During "Shramdan" activity we planted flowering plants and cleaned the campus.

Farmers Awareness Program

Introduction:

The idea behind this program is to aware farmers about recently concerning issue of excess use of chemical fertilizers, insecticides and pesticide used especially on the vegetable crop by the farmers due to lack of awareness. The important role of nation building has been assigned to the higher education institute which makes it imperative for teachers and students to participate in the community. The extension and community centered activities achieve the goal of building the sustainable community. The traditional role of institutions of higher learning is to carry out two important functions teaching and research. In the current context, this role requires to undergo a change and colleges are no more expected merely to function in isolation as islands of excellence. The University Grants Commission in its policy frame has added extension and community centered activities as the third important role for institution of higher education. The excess use of chemical fertilizers insecticides and pesticides in the agricultural field not only cause harm to the consumer of the crop but also it decreases the quality of production, contributes in pollution of soil, water and air. The credits of pesticides include enhanced economic production in terms of increased production of vegetables then their debits have resulted in serious health implications to man and its environment. There is now overwhelming evidence that some of these chemical fertilizers and pesticides do pose a potential risk to humans and other life forms and unwanted side effects on the environment. Keeping this in mind the institute's faculty of Science and NCC collaboratively takes this initiative together with guidance of IQAC and respected Principal of our college. Most of the students enrolled in our college come from the agricultural background and live in rural area so it is possible to generate their interest in this activity. The framework of this program is basically two dimensional and at the end it will benefit both the community and the students engaged in this activity. With the hope that above stated problem could be minimized by the intervention of institute through the students by awaking farmers of this region.

Faculties Engaged in Smooth conduction of Activity:

Prof. N. P. Satav

Dr. M. R. Solanke

Prof. S. S. Mhasal

Prof. N. Dahake

Dr. D. K. Sherkar

Prof. K. P. Sable

Prof. S. D. Deshmukh

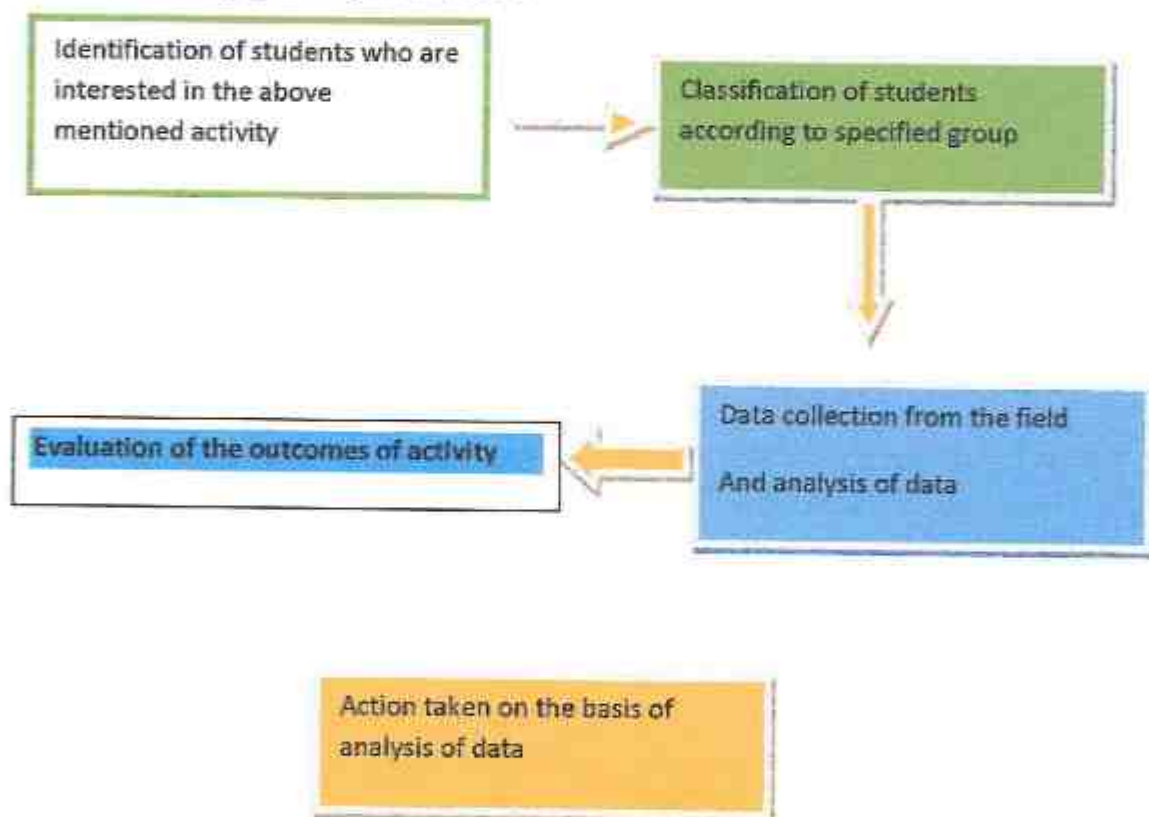

Objectives:

1. To aware farmers about the hazardous impacts of excess use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides.
2. To promote team work among the enrolled students.
3. To generate inquiry and counseling abilities of students
4. To enhance leadership qualities among the group of students.

5. To inculcate experiential learning, participative learning and problem-solving techniques among the students enrolled in this program.
6. This activity aims to provide primary knowledge to students about gathering data, interrelating, interpreting the collected data and its analysis.
7. This program aims to restrict utilization of chemical fertilizers and pesticides among farmers.
8. This program also aims to promote environmental protection by awaking farmers about the hazardous effects of chemical fertilizers and pesticides.
9. This awareness program will help to develop communication skill among the participants of this activity.

Planning of Activity:

The tentative activity planning is as follow,

Implications

Any activity which is planned to benefit community is having its own implications but the possible outcomes and future prospective are also analyzed before going to implement the activity so as to measure the intensity of target to be achieved after completion of activity. The present extension activity basically aims to aware famers about the excess use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides to reduce pollution and to increase the quality of food products obtained from agricultural produce. The Sangrampur Taluka is a good producer of vegetable crop and the most of students enrolled in our institution belong to the villages in the Sangrampur tahesil. Considering this as an opportunity, the institute faculties explored the possibilities of creating awareness with the help of students by guiding them. We as responsible institute, expect bidirectional benefits as the students learn to collect data, analyze it and provide response accordingly. At the end of this extension activity we expect that we will convince and encourage all the farmers for minimum use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides.

Summary Report of Activity

The institute is located in agriculture rich area as well as the students enrolled in our institute are belonging to agricultural background, so the institute takes it as an opportunity to initiate the proposed activity. Near about 37 students from all three faculties have participated in this awareness program under the guidance of faculties mentioned above.

This extension activity was a multidimensional experience for students, as the activity is planned in such a way that students would get benefit while achieving objectives of the activity. As per the plan of activity students have interacted with the local farmers to know about the utilization of chemical fertilizers and pesticides (the data capture format was provided with this report). After this, faculties and students meet to discuss about the data obtained from farmers and make their conclusions. It is seen that the maximum farmers utilize chemical fertilizers and pesticides in their crop fields so as to increase their production of crops. It is also seen that the farmers' expenditure on fertilizers and pesticides is extensive, so it is essential to suggest some other alternatives such as, compost, Vermin compost, Vermiwash, Neemseed extract, Jivamrut, Bijamrut, Ricewater, Dashaparni ark, Nimastra, Agniastra, arogreen fermented fruit juice, Garbez enzyme, Amrutkavach, Enriched amrut ghol, and many more. After this the students planned to re-visit the farmers to interact with them so as to discuss about limited use of chemical fertilizer and pesticides, together with this students had shared the implications of excess use of pesticides and fertilizers on environment, human health, soil health etc. and suggested them alternatives for chemical based pesticides and fertilizers. Students have also distributed the brochures depicting alternatives for chemical based pesticides and fertilizers, already published by the agriculture department (some of them attached with this report).

Topic: Earthquake

Name: _____
Roll No: _____
Class: _____

Earthquake is a sudden shaking or trembling of the earth. It is caused by the movement of tectonic plates. The energy released during an earthquake is called seismic energy. This energy travels through the earth in the form of seismic waves. There are three types of seismic waves: P-waves, S-waves, and surface waves. P-waves are the fastest and travel through both solid and liquid. S-waves are slower and travel only through solids. Surface waves are the slowest and travel only along the surface of the earth. They are the most destructive. Earthquakes can cause a lot of damage to buildings and infrastructure. They can also cause tsunamis. Earthquakes are a natural hazard that we cannot control. However, we can take steps to reduce the damage caused by earthquakes. These steps include building earthquake-resistant structures and having an earthquake preparedness plan.

Topic: Landslide

Name: _____
Roll No: _____

Landslide is a geological phenomenon in which a mass of earth or rock moves down a slope. It can be caused by a variety of factors, including heavy rain, earthquakes, and human activities. Landslides can be very dangerous and can cause a lot of damage to property and infrastructure. They can also cause loss of life. There are several types of landslides, including mudslides, rockslides, and debris slides. Landslides can be prevented by several measures, including proper land use, slope stabilization, and early warning systems. It is important to be aware of the signs of a landslide and to take appropriate action if one occurs.

International Tiger Day is celebrated on 29th July every year. It is a day to raise awareness about the importance of tiger conservation. Tigers are one of the most endangered big cats in the world. They are found in the forests of South and Central Asia. The tiger population has declined significantly over the last few decades due to habitat loss, poaching, and illegal trade in tiger parts. It is important to take steps to protect and conserve tigers and their habitats. This includes creating and managing tiger reserves, enforcing anti-poaching laws, and promoting sustainable land use practices. International Tiger Day is a great opportunity to educate the public about the importance of tigers and to encourage everyone to do their part to protect these magnificent animals.
